A rustic still life composition. On the left, a cloth with wide white and olive green stripes is draped over a dark wooden plank surface. Scattered on the cloth are several dried apricots and walnuts, some whole and some cracked open. In the upper left, a small wooden bowl is filled with dried apricots. To the right, on the wooden planks, there is another small wooden bowl containing a mix of nuts and dried fruit. Various individual nuts and dried apricots are scattered around these bowls. In the lower right foreground, a thick, light-colored rope is coiled in a loose, circular pattern. The overall lighting is soft and natural, creating a warm, textured scene.
